Just one mile from historic York lies the magnificent Fulford Golf Club, one of the best inland golf courses in Britain and the host of 23 consecutive European Tour events.

Major winners such as Seve Ballesteros, Nick Faldo, Sandy Lyle and Ian Woosnam graced the fairways of Fulford when the club hosted high-profile tournaments including the Benson & Hedges, Sun Alliance, and the Murphy's Cup. It also held the first British Ladies' Open Championship in 1976 – won by Jenny Lee Smith.

Fulford was the setting for one of golf's most famous moments: when flaxen-haired Bernhard Langer, clambered 20 feet up the magnificent ash tree by the 17th green to play his third shot. It was a stroke which was televised around the world

Fulford remains one of the leading championship venues in Britain. It is a 'must play' course for the serious golfer and the club offers a warm and hospitable welcome.
