COURSE

Neguri, or Real Sociedad de Golf de Neguri to give the club its full title, was originally founded way back in 1911 and the original course was an 11- hole affair located in Lejona. Fifty years later, the club moved to its present site in Getxo, Punta Galea, to the north west of Bilbao.

Spanish architect Javier Arana – who went on to design many fine Iberian courses like Guadalmina Sur in 1965, and El Saler in 1968 – designed the new 18-hole course, and Neguri is considered to be one of his best creations.

Measuring 6,900 yards from the championship tees, the course is laid out in two loops of nine, that both end close to the clubhouse. It is a golfing layout for the connoisseur, with wide fairways, enormous greens and minimal greenside bunkering.

Some of the holes on the property sit along the cliff tops, two hundred feet above sea level, and there are fine vistas of the Cantabrian Sea to be glimpsed through the trees.

One of the best holes on the course is the 211-yard, par three 14th which is played uphill to a green protected by a single bunker – but what an intimidating sand trap that solitary hazard is, with its steep face visible from the tee, sitting right in front of the raised putting surface.

Visitors must play the course with a member, but Neguri have a reciprocal arrangement with many Spanish clubs to allow their members courtesy of the course.
