Note:

WAGR Ranked golfers are encouraged to complete the Player Information Form found on the World Amateur Golf Ranking (WAGR) website. Biographical information provided by you will be displayed on the WAGR website. WAGR is used for many exemptions, and having your most up-to-date information on the WAGR database allows for the most expedient and accurate processing of your competition results. The contact information and date of birth provided may be shared between The R&A and USGA or with any individual or entity assisting The R&A in the administration of WAGR but otherwise will be kept private and confidential by The R&A in accordance with its privacy policy.

You can access the form at: <http://www.randa.org/en/WAGR/WAGR%20System/Player%20information%20form.aspx>.

In order to be included in WAGR, results of Counting Events must be submitted by event organisers in a timely manner. In order to receive points in WAGR for the Counting Events in which you participate, you may wish to encourage the event organiser to return event results to WAGR as soon as possible once the Counting Event concludes.

Yours sincerely
