To Whom It May Concern

Mackenzie & Ebert Ltd.

I am the Chairman of Askernish Club, in the Outer Hebrides in Scotland.

Martin Ebert of Mackenzie & Ebert Ltd. has asked me to write this letter to confirm that he has designed the Askernish Old course for Mackenzie & Ebert Ltd.. This was originally designed by Old Tom Morris but it fell into disrepair in the 1930s. No plans could be found for the course so effectively the course is a new one which Martin has designed albeit trying to recreate the holes which Old Tom Morris may have designed in 1892.

Martin has been thoroughly professional with all of his input and I could not recommend him and Mackenzie & Ebert highly enough to anyone who wants a golf course designed. His knowledge and appreciation of the history of the game is extremely impressive and we are more than delighted with the course we now have.

We will shortly have secured the land required for the Askernish New course and the board of directors have already intimated that Mackenzie & Ebert be the preferred architects even although we have been approached by companies from throughout the globe.

Yours faithfully,

Ralph Thompson
